

preservatives used in nimue

this new preservative system provides a system that is safe, mild and effective

Eco-orientated consumers want to use nature identical ingredients and are therefore always looking for mild, non-formaldehyde and non-halogen containing preservative systems. As Nimue conforms to this philosophy, we looked for an effective mild alternative preservative system to the more traditional systems.

The new preservative system, consisting of either Sorbic Acid, Phenoxyethanol and Ethylhexylglycerin or Phenoxyethanol and Ethylhexylglycerin, can be called a mild preservative system and is paraben free.

Nimue International researched the ultimate three ingredients that work synergistically together to ensure effective mild preservation and are effective against all types of microorganisms.
